La Venta is the capital of the former Fuentesansa municipal comarca, and has a population of 8,710 (INE 2011). It is the center of the comarca, and is accessed by the recently completed AS-1460 road to the Valle del Caudal. La Venta has a modern town, with the central area being based on a grid of streets. It is a residential suburb of Granada. History The history of La Venta begins with the Moorish conquest in 1236 and the subsequent reconquest in 1247. The first incursion was made by Abd ar-Rahman I of the Hafsids Kingdom of Granada; he died in 1227, and was succeeded by his son, Nasir-al-Dawla. Soon after, Umar ibn Hafsun, who claimed descent from Abd ar-Rahman I, established himself in La Venta and started a struggle with the Christians. The rule of the Nasirids was characterized by several periods of political instability, generally caused by the decadence of the house and the scarcity of heirs. Many Muwallad chiefs were appointed to rule the territory, who were in turn replaced
